ARETE IT SERVICES STUDENT MATERIAL

PROSPECTIVE STUDY:

A study in which the subjects are identified and followed in time to watch for outcomes such as the development of a disease during the study period.

EPIDEMIOLOGY:

The science concerned with the study of the factors determining and influencing the frequency and distribution of disease, injury and other health related events.

DATA LOCK POINT:

The date (month and day) designated as the cut off for data to be included in a development safety update report.

DATA MINING

At the UMC, the use of an automated tool based on Bayesian logic, for the scanning of the WHO database (Vigibase) in the process of detecting drug adverse reaction associations.

VIGIBASE

VigiBase is UMC's starting-point for the journey from data to wisdom about safer use of medicines and wise therapeutic decisions in clinical practice. It is the driving-force at the heart of the work of UMC and the WHO Programme. The purpose is to ensure that early signs of previously unknown medicines-related safety problems are identified as rapidly as possible.

VIGIFLOW:

VigiFlow is a web-based Individual Case Safety Report (ICSR) management system that is available for use by national pharmacovigilance centres of the WHO Programme for International Drug Monitoring.

CAVEAT DOCUMENT:

The formal advisory warning accompanying data release from the WHO database, it specifies the conditions and reservations applying to interpretations and use of the data.

BIAS:

Bias is systematic deviation of results or inferences from the truth or processes leading to such systematic deviations

JOURNEY OF A DRUG:

Drug undergoes a journey of 12-18 years before it is available in the market. It includes:

1. Drug Discovery
2. Drug Development
3. Pre Clinical trails
4. Clinical Trails
5. Marketing.

Drug discovery: It is the process by which drugs are discovered /designed.

The process of drug discovery includes

- Identification of Target
- Target Validation
- Lead Identification
- Lead Optimization

Targets are cellular or genetic chemicals in the body which are believed to be associated with disease. Researchers identify and isolate such targets knowing its function and how they influence the disease.

Target Validation: It involves in analyzing and comparing each target to others based on their association with specific disease and ability to regulate biological and chemical compounds in the body.

- A lead compound is one that is believed to have potential to treat disease.
- Lead identification is testing on such lead compounds to confirm its effect on drug target.
- Lead optimization compares the properties of various lead compounds to select the one with greatest potential to be developed into safe and effective medicines.

Drug development: It is the process of bringing a new drug to market

Preclinical studies: Studies done for testing the drugs on invitro and invivo conditions on animals. These are done to evaluate toxic and pharmacologic effect of drug.

Clinical studies: Investigation of new drug in human intended to discover the effects of a drug and to identify any adverse effects, evaluating its safety and efficacy.

CLINICAL TRIAL

These are research studies that explore whether a medical strategy, treatment, or device is safe and effective for humans. These studies also may show which medical approaches work best for certain illnesses or groups of people.

PHASES OF CLINICAL TRIALS

Summary of clinical trial phases

Phase	Primary goal	Dose	Patient monitor	Typical number of participants	Success rate ^(%)	Notes
Preclinical	Testing of drug in non-human subjects, to gather efficacy, toxicity and pharmacokinetic information	unrestricted	scientific researcher	not applicable (in vitro and in vivo only)
Phase 0	Pharmacokinetics; particularly, oral bioavailability and half-life of the drug	very small, subtherapeutic	clinical researcher	10 people		often skipped for phase I
Phase I	Testing of drug on healthy volunteers for dose-ranging	often subtherapeutic, but with ascending	clinical researcher	20-100 normal healthy volunteers	approximately 70%	determines whether drug

Why do we need pharmacovigilance?

Humanitarian concern

ADR May cause sudden death

Promoting rational use of medicines and adherence

Ethics

To know of something that is harmful to another person who does not know, and not telling, is unethical
