• Lungs are contained within the rib cage but rest on the diaphragm.

• Between the ribs are two sets of intercostal muscles-attach to each upper and lower rib.

• During inhalation, the intercostal muscles and diaphragm contracts, thereby enlarging the thoracic cavity.

• This generates a negative intrathoracic pressure, allowing air to rush in through nose and mouth down into pharynx, trachea and lungs.

• Purpose of lungs is to take oxygen from the atmosphere and exchange it for CO₂ in blood.
